II. UNDERGRADUATES IN THE PROGRAM IN GENDER AND SEXUALITY STUDIES

Undergraduate Enrollments: 2010-2011

Gender and Sexuality Studies Core Courses: 58

Cross-listed Courses: 269

Certificate Students

Students who wish to complete the requirements for the undergraduate certificate in Gender and Sexuality Studies must take six courses: GSS 201 or 202, the introductory course; GSS 301 or 302, an advanced, interdisciplinary, rotating special topics seminar; and four additional courses chosen from among other gender- and sexuality-related departmental offerings in the Program and across the University. Among these courses, at least one must be taken in each of three broad disciplinary areas: social sciences, humanities, and sciences. Students may take gender- and sexuality-related courses in their major departments for certificate credit at the discretion of the Program’s director. In addition, certificate students are urged to incorporate issues related to feminism, women, gender, and/or sexuality into their junior papers and senior thesis.

Graduating Seniors 2011 (8)

Carissa Fu, Anthropology
Sierra Gronewold, Anthropology
Johannes Muenzel, German
Janelle Morris, Near Eastern Studies
Tobias (Katie) Rodriguez, Psychology
Kelley Sternhagen, Psychology
Amelia Thomson-DeVeaux, Religion
Kaitlyn Hamilton, Anthropology

The Suzanne M. Huffman ‘90 Memorial Thesis Prize

We are grateful to the family and friends of Suzanne M. Huffman ‘90 for endowing this prize. Suzanne was a Women's Studies certificate student who completed her senior thesis while undergoing chemotherapy. Her feminist commitments were central to her life and remained so until her untimely death in fall 1991. To capture something of her spirit, the prize citation reads: “This prize is intended to honor a student whose scholarship shows a deep commitment to the dilemmas raised by feminism and an extraordinary empathy for the problems and struggles of women.” The Huffman Prize is a university-endowed prize included in the Commencement program.

This prize was awarded to two students this year:

Kaitlyn Janelle Hamilton was awarded the prize for her thesis in Anthropology, “Reclaiming Birth after Cesarean: An Ethnographic Study of the Beliefs and Practices of Midwives in the 21st Century.” Kelley Sternhagen was awarded the prize for her thesis, “Knowledge is Power: Alleviating the Negative Effects of Benevolent Sexism through Education.”

III. GENDER AND SEXUALITY STUDIES CURRICULUM: CORE, PROGRAM, AND DEPARTMENTAL COURSES

FALL 2010

Gender and Sexuality Studies Courses
WOM 202/POL 222: Women in Politics, Media, and Contemporary U.S.
Professor Melissa V. Harris-Perry

This course is an introduction to the various roles and experiences of women in contemporary American politics, media and society. The course explores changing definitions of womanhood and women's identity during the late 20th and early 21st centuries. We discuss women who hold positions of leadership and relative privilege and women who find themselves in the most powerless and difficult circumstances in contemporary America. We explore cross cutting issues of class, race, sexuality, gender identity, and faith to help understand the many experiences of women in America.

Cross-listed Courses

AAS 311 / WOM 313: An Introduction to Black Women's Studies
Professor Noliwe M. Rooks

CLA 212 / HUM 212 / WOM 212: Classical Mythology

SPRING 2011

Gender and Sexuality Studies Courses

WOM 420 / SOC 420: Born in the U.S.A.: Culture and Reproduction in Modern America
Professor Elizabeth M. Armstrong

Reproduction is a basic biological process, as well as a fundamental one for all societies. While the biology of human reproduction is universal across time and place, cultural norms and social institutions powerfully inflect and shape the experience of pregnancy and childbirth in every society. This course investigates the history and sociology of reproduction, focusing on the contemporary United States, but with an eye towards other societies for comparison. How, why, and for whom does birth matter? How do reproductive practices reflect gender, race, and class? The course examines the culture, politics, and economics of reproduction.

Cross-listed Courses

IV. GRADUATE INFORMATION

Graduate Research Colloquium

Statement of Purpose

The Graduate Works-in-Progress Colloquium is a series of presentations by graduate students on topics related to the study of gender and sexuality and is open to all students, faculty, and staff. It serves as one of the main links between the Program in Gender and Sexuality Studies and graduate students. The Colloquium in particular provides a forum for new scholars from a wide range of backgrounds to discuss gender- and sexuality-related research. Graduate students receive feedback on their academic work and practice presenting it in front of a larger, sympathetic and, at the same time, critical audience, which consists mainly of graduate students, but may include dissertation advisors, faculty members, and members of the community. The students attending the colloquium in turn practice giving productive criticism to academic work in draft form. This year, the Colloquium expanded to include students and participants from colleges and universities in the tri-state area, including Rutgers, New York University, and Columbia, among others.

Work Accomplished in Fall 2010 and Spring 2011

The Graduate Works-in-Progress Colloquium met in the fall and in the spring. Light refreshments were provided. The talks were publicized via email and the Program website. This year’s colloquium organizers were Laura Gandolfi (Spanish and Portuguese) and Hartley Miller (French and Italian).
Schedule of Presentations, Fall 2010

VII. ART EXHIBITIONS
Curator: Dana Lichtstrahl, Princeton-based artist.
The exhibition space in our Program suite is for women artists of Princeton University and the surrounding township, county, and state. Each artist’s exhibition includes an artist’s statement and, if requested, a reception at which the artist can meet and talk to members of the community. The exhibition brings a diverse group of artists and interested visitors into our Program offices and provokes lively discussion among those who visit on a regular basis.

This year’s artists were:

Nina Belfor, Paintings
Katie Boyce (Princeton Student), Paintings
Group Show (included work of the all artists listed here)
Dana Mastrovito, Digital art
Heather Barros, Oil Paintings
Glynn Chestnut, Fabric creations

VIII. BOOK CLUB DISCUSSIONS

Our Program Manager, Maria Papadakis, started a book club which meets once a month, usually from 12:00-1:00 over lunch. The author of the book (typically a woman) often attends the discussion with book club members. Approximately 70 people belong to the club, most of whom are Princeton University staff. Anyone in the university community is welcomed to become a member and attend the discussions.

2010-2011 titles discussed included:

Live Your Joy. The author, Bonnie St. John, joined us for the discussion.
Passing Strange. The author, Martha Sandweiss, joined us for the discussion.
Half of a Yellow Sun by Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie.
Half the Sky: Turning Oppression into Opportunity for Women Worldwide by Nicholas D. Kristof and Sheryl WuDunn.
Thinking about Leadership. the author, Nan Keohane, joined us for the discussion.
Kaffir Boy by Mark Mathabane.
IX. STUDENT SUPPORT AND OTHER CONTRIBUTIONS

We continuously provide funding to both Princeton graduate and undergraduate students for research, internship opportunities, conference travel and attendance, and other projects which help foster their academic and professional development.

Additionally, we provide financial assistance to a plethora of Programs, Departments, and Centers on campus for collaboration on an array of events and projects.

Please contact our office if you would like a comprehensive list including the amounts we have furnished.
