II. UNDERGRADUATES
Undergraduate Enrollments 2011-2012

Gender and Sexuality Studies Core Courses: 82

Cross-listed Courses: 499

Certificate Students

Students who wish to complete the requirements for the undergraduate certificate in Gender and Sexuality Studies must take six courses: GSS 201 or 202, the introductory course; GSS 301 or 302, an advanced, interdisciplinary, rotating special topics seminar; and four additional courses chosen from among other gender- and sexuality-related offerings across the University. Among these courses, at least one must be taken in each of three broad disciplinary areas: social sciences, humanities, and sciences. Students may take gender- and sexuality-related courses in their major departments for certificate credit at the discretion of the program’s director. In addition, certificate students are urged to incorporate issues related to feminism, women, gender, and/or sexuality into their junior papers and senior theses.

The Suzanne M. Huffman ’90 Memorial Senior Thesis Prize

We are grateful to the family and friends of Suzanne M. Huffman ’90 for endowing this prize. Suzanne was a Women’s Studies certificate student who completed her senior thesis while undergoing chemotherapy. Her feminist commitments were central to her life and remained so until her untimely death in the fall of 1991. To capture something of her spirit, the prize citation reads: “This prize is intended to honor a student whose scholarship shows a deep commitment to the dilemmas raised by feminism and an extraordinary empathy for the problems and struggles of women.” The Huffman Prize is a University-endowed prize included in the Commencement program.

This year Lauren Brachman was awarded the prize for her thesis in Sociology, “FYI, I’M IVF: Making Meaning in the In Vitro Fertilization Clinic.” We gave Lydia Dallett an honorable mention for her thesis in Politics, “Combat Is Best, Sister: The Integration of Women into Israeli Combat Units.”

III. CURRICULUM:
CORE, PROGRAM, AND DEPARTMENTAL COURSES

Gender and Sexuality Studies Courses

FALL 2011

GSS 201: Introduction to the Study of Gender

Professor Gayle M. Salamon

The study of gender from a multidisciplinary perspective, examined in terms of social behavior and symbolic representation. Topics selected from historical, economic, political, and artistic realms.

GSS 302 / LAS 314 / REL 300:  Topics in the Study of Gender - Gender, Sexuality, and Religion in Colonial Latin America
Professor Jessica Delgado

Advanced seminar; focus changes from year to year. In general the seminar uses contemporary and classic works of feminist theory to examine ideas about gender that have shaped modern culture. Topics have included feminism and liberalism, literature and ideology, and psychoanalysis and feminism.

SPRING 2012

GSS 365 / ENG 365 / THR 369 / AMS 365: Isn’t It Romantic? The Broadway Musical from Rodgers and Hammerstein to Sondheim

Professor Stacy E. Wolf

Song. Dance. Man. Woman. These are the basic components of the Broadway musical theatre. How have musical theatre artists, composers, lyricists, librettists, directors, choreographers, and designers worked with these building blocks to create this quintessentially American form of art and entertainment? Why are musicals structured by love and romance? This course explores conventional and resistant performances of gender and sexuality in the Broadway musical since the 1940s.

GSS 400: Contemporary Feminist Theory

Professor Gayle M. Salamon

We take as our primary text the new translation of Simone de Beauvoir’s landmark volume, The Second Sex, one of the most significant origin points of current understandings of gender. In our sustained consideration of The Second Sex, we explore Beauvoir’s ideas about the influence of sex and gender on childhood, the family, sexuality, relationships, aging, work, the social order, and the philosophical imaginary. We also consider contemporary fiction and film alongside that text, taking Beauvoir as our tour guide as we encounter and interpret contemporary representations of gender.

GSS 420 / SOC 420: Born in the U.S.A.: Culture and Reproduction in Modern America
Professor Elizabeth M. Armstrong

Reproduction is a basic biological process, as well as a fundamental one for all societies. While the biology of human reproduction is universal across time and place, cultural norms and social institutions powerfully inflect and shape the experience of pregnancy and childbirth in every society. This course investigates the history and sociology of reproduction, focusing on the contemporary United States, but with an eye toward other societies for comparison. How, why, and for whom does birth matter? How do reproductive practices reflect gender, race, and class? The course examines the culture, politics, and economics of reproduction.

IV. GRADUATE RESEARCH COLLOQUIUM

Statement of Purpose

The Graduate Works-in-Progress Colloquium is a series of presentations by graduate students on topics related to the study of gender and sexuality and is open to all students, faculty, and staff. It serves as one of the main links between the Program in Gender and Sexuality Studies and graduate students. The colloquium in particular provides a forum for new scholars from a wide range of backgrounds to discuss gender- and sexuality-related research. Graduate students receive feedback on their academic work and practice presenting it in front of a larger, sympathetic and, at the same time, critical audience, which consists mainly of graduate students, but may include dissertation advisors, faculty members, and members of the community. The students attending the colloquium in turn practice giving productive criticism to academic work in draft form. This year, the colloquium expanded to include students and participants from colleges and universities in the tri-state area, including Rutgers, New York University, and Columbia, among others.

Work Accomplished in Fall 2011 and Spring 2012

The Graduate Works-in-Progress Colloquium met in the fall and in the spring. Light refreshments were provided. The talks were publicized via email and the program website. This year’s colloquium organizers were graduate students Laura Gandolfi (Spanish and Portuguese), Hartley Miller (French and Italian), Nimisha Barton (History), Josh Rivas (French and Italian), and Brent Lue (East Asian Studies).

VI. ART EXHIBITIONS

Overseen by Princeton-based artist, Dana Lichtstrahl, the exhibition space in our program suite is for women artists of Princeton University and the surrounding township, county, and state. Each artist’s exhibition includes an artist statement and, if requested, a reception at which the artist can meet and talk to members of the community. Exhibitions bring a diverse group of artists and interested visitors into our program offices and provoke lively discussion among those who visit on a regular basis.

This year’s artists were:

Preeti Singh, Paintings

Anita Benarde, Handmade Paper with Inclusions

Group Exhibition (exhibiting work of Dana Mastrovito, Heather Barros, Glynn Chesnut, Preeti Singh and Anita Benarde)

Marjorie Grigonis, Oil Painting, Mixed Media

Johanna Furst, Painting, Drawing

Stacie Speer Scott, Collage, Painting

Paula Everitt, Graphite Drawing

VII. BOOK CLUB DISCUSSIONS

This book club meets approximately once a month, usually from 12:00-1:00 over lunch. The author of the book (typically a woman) sometimes attends the discussion with book club members. Approximately 100 people belong to the club, most of whom are Princeton University staff. Anyone in the university community is welcomed to become a member and attend the discussions.

2011-2012 titles included the following:

Cracks and Love Child. The author, Sheila Kohler, joined us for the discussion.

Sister Citizen by Melissa Harris-Perry.

Equally Shared Parenting by Marc and Amy Vachon.
A Widow’s Story by Joyce Carol Oates.

Dorothea Lange: A Life Beyond Limits by Linda Gordon.

Infidel by Ayaan Hirsi Ali.

Changed For Good: A Feminist History of the Broadway Musical. The author, Stacy Wolf, joined us for the discussion.

How Great Women Lead. The authors, Bonnie St. John and Darcy Deane, joined us for the discussion.

VIII. STUDENT SUPPORT AND OTHER CONTRIBUTIONS

We continually provide funding to both Princeton graduate and undergraduate students for research, internship opportunities, conference travel and attendance, and other projects that help foster their academic and professional development.

Additionally, we provide financial assistance to a plethora of programs, departments, and centers on campus for collaboration on an array of events and projects.

Below is a list of “direct” amounts we have given to various organizations on campus and to students. This list does not include amounts we have contributed “indirectly,” such as plane tickets we have purchased for students for conference attendance, as well as lunches, dinners, hotel accommodations and travel arrangements we have paid for in connection with different events on campus.
